Sounding the principals of the democratic party, the opening gun of the campaign was delivered in Tonopah last night with a rally at the Nevada theater. Addresses were delivered by Hon. democratic candidate for the United • went on strike this afternoon, • States senate, George B. Thatcher, ♦ which accounts for the late ♦ one of the democratic presidential electors, and H. R. Cooke, who offi-• noon. After a wait of a half • clated as the chairman of the meet-

> A good crowd was in attendance and the remarks of the different speakers were listened to with close attention with hearty applause frequently interrupting the course of the arguments. Mr. Cooke, as chairman of the democratic county central committee, called the meeting to order and after a short address introduced George Thatcher. Mr. Thatcher attacked the address as delivered Saturday night by Senator Massey and declared the republican candidate to be in woeful ignorance of the constitution of the United States and also of the Sherman antitrust law. He declared that Senator Massey in his discussions had overlooked the wool tariff issues.

An ovation greeted Mr. Pittman as he arose to speak. He first explained the difficulty of addressing an audience composed of home people. "If I have no reason other than my own personal ambition to be elected to the United States senate. I am not a fit candidate for the of fice," declared Mr. Pittman. Continuing he declared it his belief that Nevada was entitled to certain legislation by the national congress for the betterment of conditions in this state and that if elected he would labor in this behalf. He attacked the republican tariff principles, with special reference to the wool and steel schedules and stated that it was the principle of demo cracy to reduce the tariff. His advocations were of the free trade order and the speaker said in order to secure the tariff reductions it would first be necessary to elect a democratic president and a democratic congress.

The trusts problem also came in for discussion and Mr. Pittman announced while he admired his opponent and liked him as a friend, he differed with him when he advocated a high protective tariff.

That the steel trust and the wool trust were favored by the government was the statement of the speaker, who called attention to the report of the house committee that investigated the former corporation. The standpat republicans in congress were termed as being reactionaries by Mr. Pittman, and in this list he placed the name of Senator Massey. At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Pittman declared himself in favor of woman's suffrage and also of the recall of the judiciary. Two years ago, he declared, he was not in favor of the granting of the right of franchise to women, but after observing the vast corruption in Nevada politics, he became convinced that some agency was needed to purify matters, and in the granting of woman's suffrage he believed the proper solution would be obtained. The meeting closed with three rousing cheers for the national candidates of the party.
